ECHOES IN THE ORCHARD.

Oh! come ye out to the orchard,
The morn is fresh and fair,
The merry breeze is laughing,
And scented is the air;
On every bough the cherries
Are hanging ripe and gay,
While echoes sweetly answer
The song-birds' happy lay.

Summer is a-coming,
Bees are all a-humming,
Life's a wondrous garden and gladness now is born,
Banish all your sorrow,
On this golden morrow,
Laugh and love while life is sweet, this summer morn.

Oh come ye out to the orchard,
Young lads and lasses all,
While life is but a dreamland,
Before the fruit shall fall!
Oh! gather hope's fair blossoms,
No joy of summer miss,
Whate'er your fond hearts whisper,
Love's echoes answer this.
